

Rules for Linking Documents

The General Rule for linking is to always link an amendment, an objection or an opposition to the original motion or application unless the original pleading was an objection to claim. In this instance, you must link the response to the objection to claim. (Objections and Oppositions are responded to and the link should be made to the Objection or Opposition)

Special circumstances:

- Amendments to an opposition or objection are linked to the original motion or application when docketed using the objection or opposition event and the user selects the drop down box in front of the text that says Amended. This way you may follow the general rule and link to the original motion.
- Amendments to an opposition or objection are linked to the original opposition or objection when docketed using the generic amend document event. If possible, it is best not to use the generic events.
